President's letter

Dear Members

Are you looking forward to Christmas yet? I am — I love Christmas time. But in the toy business we have to plan a long way ahead and we are already working on Christmas 1989!

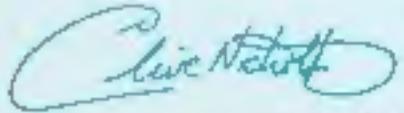

In this issue, you too can get a glimpse into at least the beginning of next year because we show on page 10 some of the new sets which will be going into the shops in January.

But here's the really exciting bit — we have made special arrangements to get a supply of one of those January sets in early for Club members only, so that you could have it from December 1st, one month before anyone else. See the details on page 11, though we can only get a limited number as it will be first come, first served.

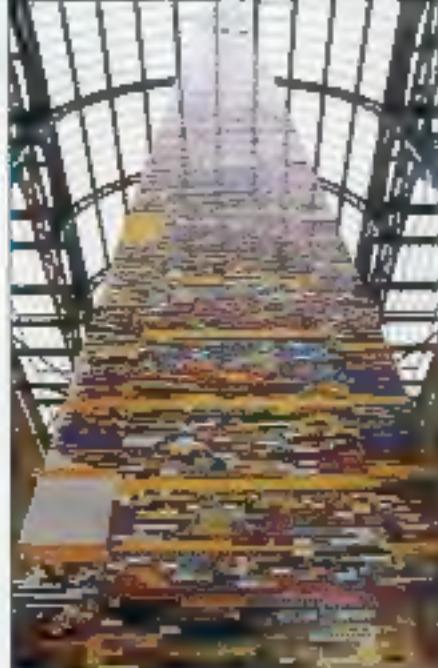

Just imagine the look on your friends' faces when they see that you have a new model at least a month before it is released to the general public!

Well, that is just one of the privileges of being a member of the LEGO Club!

Happy building.

NEW WORLD RECORD LEGO® TOWER

we were pleased to discover we had raised almost £10,000 for the Telethon charities.

Lots of celebrities from sport and TV came along to Hays Wharf to help raise money including Linda Lusardi seen here putting some bricks onto the tower and John Cleeve who performed the topping out ceremony just after midnight when the tower was completed.

LEGO companies in different countries are now planning to try and beat our World record. Our Danish colleagues plan to try this year in Copenhagen and rumour has it our Italian colleagues are also planning a record attempt!

INTERNATIONAL LEGO® WORLD CUP

At the end of August we took 3 LEGO® builders and their families to Denmark to represent the UK in the LEGO® World Cup.

Competition was very fierce. 14 countries had sent along their best LEGO® builders to build a model on any subject they chose but all the children had exactly the same bricks to build them to make a fair.

For 2 hours the children worked on their models, the rooms were silent apart from the noise of LEGO® bricks.

Later as part of their prize the children went along to the Danish model competition each room and filled their buckets with any bricks they liked. You would be surprised how many LEGO® bricks can be packed into a LEGO® bucket.

The judges spent all afternoon deliberating on the models before announcing the results, in reverse order of course.

Kevin Brown age 6 from Blackpool took 2nd place in the Juniors section, while Steven Collins age 9 from Oxford and Philip Morrison age 11 from Barnsley came 4th in their respective sections.

However, as the announcer said, "Today we have no losers", all the children taking part are national building champions who had won competitions in their own countries before going to the final in Billund. Kevin, Philip and Steven were chosen to represent the UK after winning a LEGO® building contest in the Piggy Press Magazine.

After the competition all the entrants got together for a celebration party in LEGOLAND and spent the rest of the weekend exploring the LEGOLAND Park, a local fun park, and a castle.

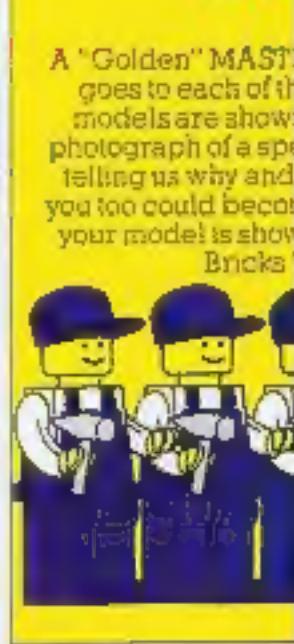

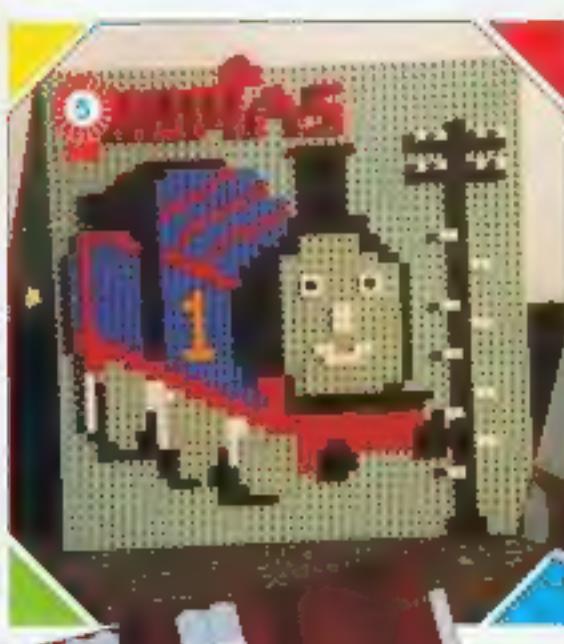

HOLIDAY INFORMATION

Club members planning a trip to the LEGOLAND Park next year may want to contact these companies for a copy of their 1989 LEGOLAND tour brochures. DFDS Ferries who sail to Denmark from Harwich and Newcastle are cutting down the number of sailings next year so it's important to book early. Specialised Tours tell us it's been difficult to get ferry crossings for last minute bookings this year and they expect it to be worse in 1989.

For a copy of their 1989 brochures contact:

2 DUNCAN SLATER
has lots of squirrels in his garden and this gave him the idea to build one from his LEGO bricks.

3 DAVID LYDOLLS
built this Formula One Racing Car. David is an avid fan of Formula One racing and enjoys watching the Grand Prix on TV.

4 MARTIN EDWARDS
enjoys reading the Mr. Men books so he decided to build a Mr. Men model.

5 SHANE McCARTHY
built this Thomas The Tank mosaic. He took the idea from a knitting pattern using one square for one brick from the pattern. The mosaic took two days to complete.

6 MATTHEW MURKIN
looked through his wildlife books and had the idea of building this Lynx.

LECTION OF WINNERS

7 NEAL HUGHES
built this Easter rabbit.

8 BENJAMIN RANDHONY
built this excellent model. It took one evening to build.
Benjamin says the hardest part was making the Parrot balance on the table.

9 BENJAMIN SHERWOOD

from the film "Ghost Busters".

10 SIMON CRACKNELL
while watching birds feeding in the garden, Simon decided to build a bird table and feeder. The birds' feet are made of a hinged brick so they can bend, and the birds are built from sloping and inverted bricks.

11 IAN ROGERS
built this skier after watching the Winter Olympics.

12 ROSEMARY FONZEN
had the idea of building this theatre from her Father who works in the theatre.

MY NAME IS KLAUS...

This is an interview with Klaus Odegaard, who lives in Billund in Denmark. Billund is just a small village in Jutland, but as some readers may know, it is also the home of the LEGOLAND Park. Klaus is almost 14 years of age and is in the 8th grade at school, but, Klaus is not an ordinary youngster, he plays in the LEGOLAND marching brass band.

Klaus, what made you start in the LEGOLAND brass band? I saw an advertisement in the local paper and as I had been playing the trumpet for quite a while I decided to contact the band leaders. First we had to learn how to play from written music, that took about six months, and after passing a test I started to learn how to play the cornet.

But you just said you play the recorder? Yes, I did at first, but then the band leaders discovered that I was much more suited for playing the cornet.

How long did it take you to learn how to play the cornet? It took me about a year, and after that I was allowed to play in the real LEGOLAND Band. And this is now my third year.

Have you had any special experiences with the band? Yes, every year in our school holiday I go with the entire band to some foreign country. So far we have been to West Germany, to Sweden, in Denmark, and last year we went to Nice on the southern coast of France. That was a very interesting trip. There are approximately 40 boys and girls in the band and we have lots and lots of fun. Most of my very best friends play in the band with me.

We also went to a tattoo in the southern part of Denmark a month ago, we had been practising a march for months and we were very nervous because we were the only amateur band as well as being a junior band, but it went very well.

Tell me, what do you do in your spare time? Well, first of all I practise at least one hour daily on the cornet, but I also like to play football. Two afternoons a week I work at a local supermarket to earn some pocket money.

Do you have any sisters and brothers?

I have an older sister of 18, and I have a small black poodle called Mie. Then, of course I have my Mum and Dad — they are both teachers.

Does that mean you'd like to become a teacher yourself? No. The subjects I like the best in school are mathematics and foreign languages, so I would like to be a banker or something like that.

Foreign languages, you say. How many do you speak? As well as Danish, we are taught English and German in school. Next year, perhaps I would like to study French as well.

Club members lucky enough to have seen the LEGOLAND Band will know they are a very good junior band. They play regularly in the LEGOLAND Park and do concert tours abroad every year.

CHRISTMAS WORLD SHOW FOR ARNOTTS OF DUBLIN

Club members in Ireland will get a chance to see the very latest World Show later this year.

Called "The World of Ships", this brand new show includes six model scenes about sea rescue, river transport, a shipyard, container ships, drilling rigs and the fishing industry. There are also models of a Danish fishing ship the "Danmark" and the "Titanic".

The centrepiece of the show is a huge Summer Harbour scene which used nearly 180,000 Basic LEGO bricks and took Danish model builders 22 weeks to complete.

As well as the ships models you will be able to see our new age model shown on the back page and Elaine Jones' LEGO model of Dublin City Hall built especially for the Dublin Millennium.

The World Show opens on Friday November 11th and runs until Saturday January 7th 1992. The Show will be open during normal shopping hours and there will be a small charge for admission. Club members can get in free of charge by showing their valid Club membership card at the entrance.

Gosh, it's been a year now since I became a LEGO bricklayer, but only a couple of days since I finished building the giant.

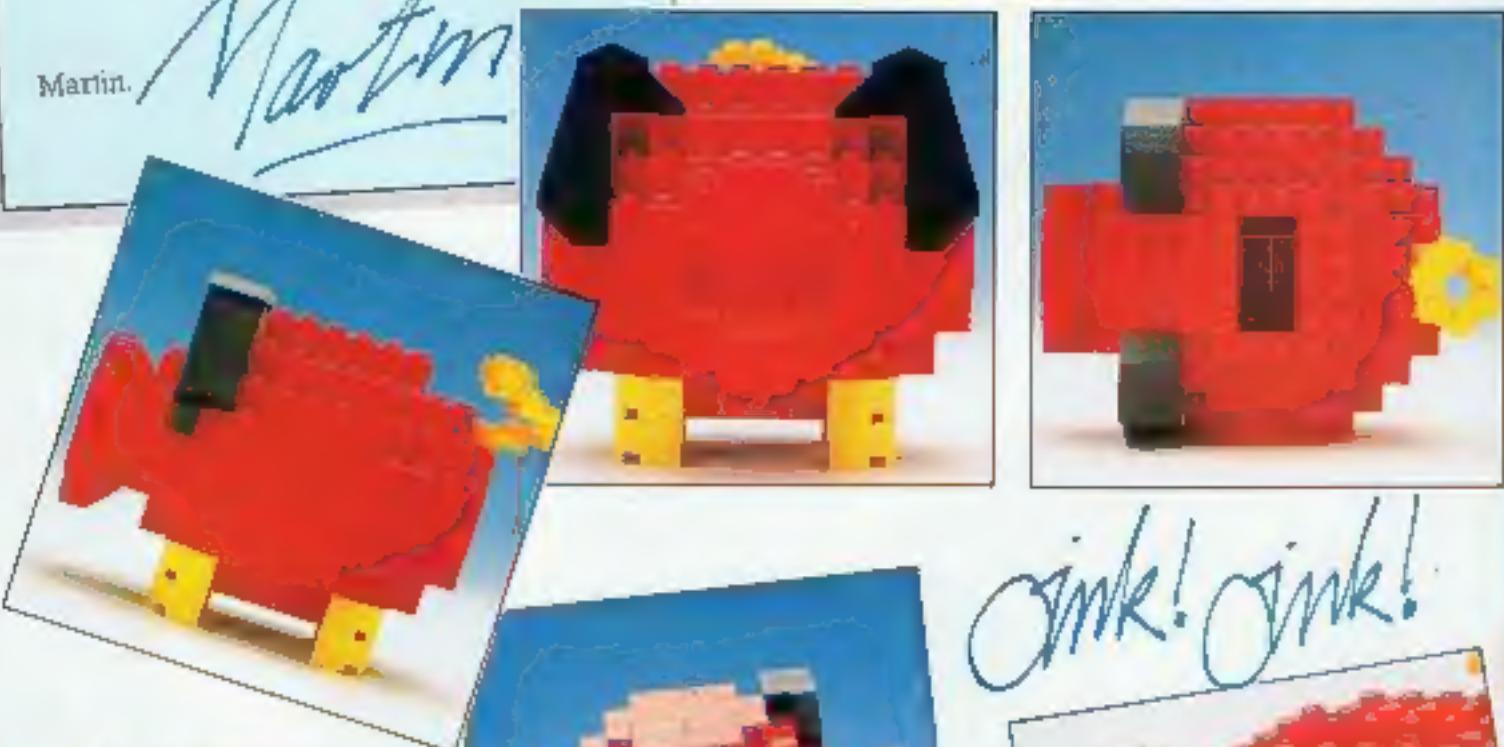

I had great fun with all the little bits on him: his eyes move, he's got a comb in his back pocket and he's even got tonsils — impressive, eh what!

We've had a rush on piggy banks here at LEGO so I thought you might like to see one.

How about making something for yourself where you can stash away your vast sums of money. It doesn't have to be a piggy bank — it could be a cow bank, or a dog bank, or a sandwich bank...

Anyway, keep on bricklaying.

Martin.

oink! oink!

'ORRIBLE THE OGRE

Well, what do you think of our latest LEGO masterpiece? Isn't he huge? The ogre stands 2.7m (or 8'9") tall and is 1.8m (or 5'7") wide. Martin took 3 months to complete this model and used around 250,000 LEGO bricks.

The ogre breaks down into 9 pieces so that we can move him around and get him into the LEGO van.

The ogre's first exhibition was in the Great LEGO Show in Blackpool earlier this summer so our model builders decided to build him a huge suitcase.

Elaine built the suitcase in one week, using 4,196 bricks. This doesn't seem like a lot of bricks but if you look carefully at the picture you'll see she has used DUPLO bricks for the main suitcase and LEGO bricks for the decorations.

To complete the display we thought a huge "LEGO Blaster" was just what was needed. It took 24 weeks to build the "blaster", which contains over 7,000 LEGO bricks.

Gareth has made clever use of different LEGO elements to get the detail on the "blaster" just right.

COMPETITION TIME

Can you guess the name we gave to our 'orrible ogre while he was being built? Send us your guess on a postcard to:

LEGO Club
Ogre Competition
Wrexham, CHWYD LL13 7TQ

Don't forget to tell us your name and address and make sure your entry arrives before 9th December 1988.

We will reserve 20 new Grand Prix Racing Sets for the first 20 correct answers pulled from the post bag on 9th December.

The Grand Prix Racing Set is one of the new town sets to be launched in January 1989, which are worth around £45 each.
